Bi?

For those who feel attraction to more than one gender

Love counts more than gender

UNISON, the UK's largest public service trade union, is working to:

Stop biphobic discrimination and harassment
Protect your privacy and dignity at work
Educate activists and members about relevant equality issues
Negotiate to establish best practice with employers for bi inclusion
Support you in accessing your legal rights
Remove the myths and stereotypes surrounding bisexuality

Bi?

For those who feel attraction to more than one gender

Love counts more than gender

As a UNISON member you have access to:

- excellent free legal services including help withwork problems and legal support for your family
- a special hotline for help and advice on workplace issues
- a confidential network of bi members who organise togetherwith lesbian, gay and transgender members.

You don't need to come out as bi at work or in your UNISON branch. You can join UNISON's confidential national bi caucus by contacting UNISON's national officer for LGBT equality at:

UNISON Centre, 130 Euston Road, London NW1 2AY
